

Protecting your baby against RSV

The RSV vaccine is free and recommended for women at 28 to 36 weeks of pregnancy.

Having the RSV vaccine during pregnancy reduces your baby's risk of severe RSV infection by around 70% in the first 6 months of life.

Talk to your midwife, GP, health clinic or pharmacy today.

For more info visit
HEALTH.NT.GOV.AU

If you need an interpreter we can book one for you.

